KEYMACRO is a powerful macro recorder and automation software that allows you to record your favorite keyboard shortcuts into an easy-to-use macro library. You can create macros of keyboard actions and assign them to the hotkeys in your system or a custom shortcut, and launch them directly from a simple GUI menu that you can customize or drag and drop to any window. KEYMACRO can record any key combination that works in any program, so you can use a single shortcut to launch many functions in different applications, or even to execute a web page or a specific URL. It can record all the actions taken by any hotkey, including mouse and mouse wheel clicks, input from the scrollbar, scrolling, and more. KEYMACRO provides three main sections, as well as an additional tab that stores all the records you have created. In the main sections, you can store the macros you want to use, and the hotkeys you want to assign them to. You can organize macros by hotkeys, to launch all the macros with one single key combination or by a combination of actions. The hotkeys you can assign to a macro are: - Windows, Mac or Linux hotkeys. - Mouse movements or clicks. - Scrollbar actions. - Each button, menu, checkbox, combobox or menu item in any application. - Each action taken by a mouse wheel. If you have a configuration file with hotkeys that you want to use, KEYMACRO allows you to export or copy those hotkeys to a custom configuration file or to the menu bar in any window, to assign them in the macro library or to set them as the default ones in the hotkeys section. KEYMACRO can be started via the menu bar or the Start menu or via the system tray icon. You can add or change a macro from within the macro library, using the edit menu option, or from a key-to-key action by selecting the hotkey you want to change, then using the right-click context menu to bring up the edit menu. KEYMACRO works with the most recent Windows operating systems, and is fully compatible with Windows 7, Windows 8, and Windows 10.
